

At Toro, we are inspired by the impact our products and our people have on our customers, our communities and the industries we serve. From the very beginning when we created the golf industry's first mechanized fairway mower in 1919, we have thrived on helping customers around the world better care for their outdoor environments through constant innovation and long-standing customer relationships.

As a leader in golf maintenance equipment and irrigation solutions with a global presence in more than 125 countries, we are honored to be trusted by golf venues around the world to help maintain their facilities and create best-in-class conditions.

At the same time, we have built a legacy of giving back by actively leveraging the expertise and assets of our company and business partners to advance the interests of the golf industry and to grow the game with a focus on increasing engagement among women and girls.

Toro is proud to support The R&A and the Women in Golf charter.
